NATIONAL COUNCIL OF JEWISH WOMEN OFFERS COLLEGE SCHOLARSHIPS

Are you a young Bergen County Jewish woman graduating from a public high school who is planning to begin college this fall?

National Council of Jewish Women Bergen County Section is planning to award several $1,000 endowed scholarships to applicants who have been accepted into a four-year college or university program.

Among the criteria that may be considered are the candidates' academic record, participation in school and/or community activities, and financial need. Information and applications are available from high school guidance offices and at www.ncjwbc.org/advocacy-education/scholarship. Deadline for submissions is April 11.

Further information about National Council of Jewish Women Bergen County Section is available at www.ncjwbc.org.

The National Council of Jewish Women (NCJW) is a grassroots organization of volunteers and advocates who turn progressive ideals into action. Inspired by Jewish values, NCJW strives for social justice by improving the quality of life for women, children, and families and by safeguarding individual rights and freedoms.
