An Exploration of Gender Equity in Israel

NCJW Sacramento Speaker Series presents:
An Exploration of Gender Equity in Israel
December 16, 2020, 2:00 EST via Zoom

NCJW's Connecting for Impact Fellowship, a prestigious leadership program for top CEOs and Executives, was initiated by NCJW Israel, in addition to our well-established Israel Granting Program. Join us to learn more about both in An Exploration of Gender Equity in Israel.

Shifting attitudes and enabling social change is the goal of Ruah Nashit -The Woman's Spirit and "Itach-Maaki" Women Lawyers for Social Justice. Women's lack of power isn't just gender inequity: it puts children at risk, leaves women vulnerable to domestic violence and human trafficking and traps them in a cycle of financial instability.

These two organizations in Israel are working to empower women to achieve economic self-sufficiency and equal participation in political policy decision-making. Join us to learn from advocates Tamar Schwartz and Netta Loevy the progress their organizations are advancing to grow the feminist impact in Israel. Tamar Schwartz is a CFI fellow from the first cohort. "Itach-Maaki" received support from NCJW's Israel granting program.
